The Account

6. Information about your Account

- 6.1. Once accepted and authorised by XPATE, XPATE will provide the Customer with an Account. The Account is personal, and only the Customer has a right to access and use XPATE Services within it and only for the declared activities and purposes in the application for the Account. If the activities and purposes change, the Customer shall promptly notify XPATE.
- 6.2. The Account allows the Customer to hold, spend, send and receive funds and convert currency. The Customer may hold funds in any currencies that we support from time to time.
- 6.3. The Customer acknowledges that:
  - XPATE is not a credit institution (bank) and that the Customer's Account is not a bank account;
  - XPATE does not act as trustee, fiduciary or escrow holder in respect of E-Money on the Customer Account;
  - E-Money held within XPATE will not earn any interest and XPATE does not pay interest on any balances in the Customer's Account; and,
  - The Customer's funds held with XPATE are not insured by any deposit protection scheme, including the Financial Services Compensation Scheme (FSCS).
- 6.4. Each Customer is only allowed to have one Account with XPATE. If more than one Account is opened to the Customer, the Customer shall notify XPATE and expressly instruct and authorise XPATE to close one of the Accounts at our discretion and transfer all the funds to the other Account to keep only one Account at any time.
- 6.5. Safeguarding. XPATE safeguards funds received from or on behalf of the Customers in exchange for E-Money in dedicated accounts maintained with licensed financial institutions in the United Kingdom following the requirements under applicable law.

7. Using the Account

Login

- 7.1. The Customer shall access his Account and perform any transaction by entering the Login Authorisation Data provided by XPATE. In case of any problems with login authorisation, the Customer shall request technical assistance by contacting XPATE.
- 7.2. Transacting in your Account. Anyone accessing the Account by entering Login Authorisation Data shall be deemed to be the Customer, and all transactions or activities under the Account shall be deemed as transactions and activities carried out by the Customer, without further clarification from XPATE. XPATE remains free to request additional identification elements at any time to verify the Customer's identity.

XPATE Payment Methods available

- 7.3. The number of XPATE Payment Methods made available to the Customer for adding, withdrawing or transferring funds to or from the Account, will depend on many factors, including the Customer's residence and verification status with us. XPATE does not guarantee the availability of any particular XPATE Payment Method, and we may change or stop offering a XPATE Payment Method at any time without notice to the Customer.
- 7.4. The Customer understands, acknowledges and accepts that, due to cross-border payments regulations in different regions and settlements, a FX difference between the processed amounts and settled amounts may occur, even if the transaction currency and Account currency are the same.

Adding funds to your Account

- 7.5. How to add funds to the Account. The Customer may add funds to their Account by purchasing E-money using one of the XPATE Payment Methods available. The Customer authorises XPATE to obtain and receive funds on behalf of the Customer from the payment service provider chosen by the Customer, less any applicable Fees, and to issue E-money to the Customer's Account.
- 7.6. We cannot be responsible for the time it takes for the money to be sent to us by the Customer's or a third party's bank or payment service provider.
- 7.7. Chargebacks from the Customer's Payment Instrument. If the Customer selected a Payment Instrument to add funds to the Account, which can be subject to chargeback, the Customer agrees that it will only exercise this chargeback right if:
  - 7.7.1. XPATE have breached this Agreement; or
  - 7.7.2. there was an unauthorised use of the Customer's payment instrument, meaning that the Customer did not execute or authorise the payment.
- 7.8. The Customer agrees that it will not exercise its chargeback right for any other reason. If we need to investigate or take any actions in connection with a chargeback caused by or related to the Customer, we may, without limiting any other remedies available to us, charge the Customer for our costs in doing so and may deduct those costs from the Customer's Account (see "Negative Balance" in section 9), limit or remove the Customer's access to our Services, or otherwise collecting the amount from the Customer. See "What happens if the Customer owes money to XPATE" in section 16.4.
- 7.9. Adding funds limits. XPATE, upon its full discretion, may impose limits on amounts of E-money that the Customer may add to the Account or impose special requirements or refuse to accept funds for electronic money purchases from the Customer.
- 7.10. The Customer agrees that once electronic money has been purchased and deposited into the Customer's Account, no refund is available. To redeem the funds in the Account, the Customer shall withdraw the electronic money following the steps in the section "Withdrawing funds from your Account".
- 7.11. Uncleared funds. Certain electronic money Payment Instruments may entitle the Customer to have electronic money credited to his account before XPATE receives the funds from the Customer's designated financial institution or payment service provider. Hereinafter, the funds credited in the Customer's Account and not yet received by XPATE will be referred to as "Uncleared Funds". If the Customer chooses to use any of such Payment Instruments, the Customer promises to have funds available in the Customer's financial institution account until we receive the cleared funds, which could take several days or longer. If Customer uses or spends Uncleared Funds, and for any reason, XPATE does not receive the Uncleared Funds amount after a reasonable time, XPATE may, without limits to other rights or remedies, deduct the Uncleared Funds amount from the Customer's Account (which could make the Account to have a negative balance - see "Negative Balance" in section 9), obtain them from the Customer's financial institution or payment service provider, as applicable, or collect them from the Customer in other ways.

- 7.12. Adding funds from other sources. XPATE may provide the Customer with local account details that the Customer or a third party can use to send money to the Customer's Account ("Account Details"). Account Details are not bank accounts. The Account Details that XPATE provides to the Customer are only a means to receive funds from third parties into a bank account held by XPATE and its affiliates so that XPATE can credit the Customer's Account held by XPATE (regardless of currency). The Account Details are not a bank account number for a bank account held by the Customer.
- 7.13. XPATE may carry verification checks when the Customer requests Account Details in addition to the checks required to obtain an Account, and we may carry out further checks on an ad-hoc basis. From time to time, the Customer's Account Details may change. When this occurs, the Customer is responsible for updating third parties and other arrangements the Customer may have to receive funds from using the Customer's Account Details. XPATE is not responsible for issues that arise when Account Details are changed, and it is the Customer's responsibility to notify third parties that the Customer's Account Details have changed.
- 7.14. If the Customer provides its Account Details to a third party, the Customer agrees that it will not impose a surcharge or any other fee solely for accepting funds in that way.
- 7.15. Funds received in the Account may be subject to reversal. Funds added to the Account could be reversed or subject to a chargeback, which means that the amount will be deducted from the Customer's Account. If a reversal or chargeback causes the Customer to have a negative balance, the Customer will be immediately liable to XPATE for the negative balance plus any fees. The funds may be reversed or subject to a chargeback by the person paying the Customer the funds or the payment provider or by XPATE, or may be liable to repayment to XPATE if, without limitation, we have reason to believe:
  - 7.15.1. XPATE, or any other party, sent the funds to the Customer in error;
  - 7.15.2. The sending of the funds was unauthorised or fraudulently undertaken or induced;
  - 7.15.3. The funds were received for activities that appear to have violated a law, this Agreement, the Additional Documents, or any other agreement between the Customer and XPATE;
  - 7.15.4. The funds are, for any reason, reversed by the sender or a payment provider; or
  - 7.15.5. Any other error which may result in the Customer's Account being credited in circumstances where the Customer is not the lawful recipient or lawfully entitled to retain the funds.
- 7.16. If the sender or any payment provider reverses any funds, the Customer agrees that XPATE may refund, deduct or reverse the amount of the funds plus any fees from the Customer's Account.
- 7.17. Chargeback Fees. If the Customer receives a debit or credit card-funded payment into the Customer's Account and the Customer (or a third party) pursue a chargeback for the transaction with the card issuer, then XPATE may apply a fee for facilitating the chargeback process and will remove the chargeback funds from the Customer's Account.

Withdrawing funds from your Account

- 7.18. How to withdraw from the Account. The Customer may withdraw electronic money using one of the XPATE Payment Method available to the Customer on the Account. The Customer authorises XPATE to withdraw E-money via the chosen withdrawal method, less applicable fees, and to remit the funds back to the Customer.
- 7.19. Withdrawal fees. We may charge the Customer a fee for each withdrawal request. We will let the Customer know the exact amount when the Customer submits a request. The Customer can also learn more about the fees we charge in our pricing page, available in section 1.3 of this Agreement.
- 7.20. The withdrawal account must be under the Customer's name. XPATE may only withdraw Customer's funds into an account held in Customer's name at a financial institution.

- 7.21. Withdrawal limits. XPATE may place limits on the withdrawal amounts of electronic money, impose special requirements, or delay or refuse the withdrawal of the Customer's funds. These limits, delays or refusals may occur because we must perform certain checks or until all requirements under the law are fully satisfied or due to reversed payments to the Customer's Account (for example, due to a chargeback). XPATE cannot be held responsible for any such delays or refusals.

Transferring funds

- 7.22. How to make a transfer. The Customer may set up transfers by entering the XPATE Portal. The Customer must provide information about the transfer. The purpose of the transfer shall conform with the specified nature of business disclosed by the Customer when applying for an Account. By making a transfer, the Customer irrevocably and unconditionally gives instructions to XPATE to proceed with it as instructed and does not intend to cancel or alter it.
- 7.23. The XPATE Portal will calculate and show the transfer fees once the Customer fills in all the information required for a transfer.
- 7.24. Payment order limits. We may limit the amount the Customer sends per transfer or the amount of transfers. If we do, we will provide more information on limits on our Website.
- 7.25. Completion time of a transfer. The estimated completion time of a transfer will be provided to the Customer when setting up the transfer. We will use reasonable efforts to ensure that the funds arrive in the recipient's bank account or payment account within the notified timeframe provided to the Customer. We do not have any control over the time it may take for the recipient's bank or payment provider to credit and make available funds to the recipient.
- 7.26. Delay in transfer. We may delay processing a transfer in certain situations. This may happen if we need to confirm that the transaction has been authorised, due to verification checks or due diligence reviews, or for reversed payments to the Customer's Account (e.g., as a result of a chargeback). XPATE is not responsible for such delays.
- 7.27. Refusal. If we are unable to complete the Customer's transfer, we will let the Customer know and, if possible, tell the Customer the reasons for the refusal and an explanation of how to correct any factual errors. However, we are not required to notify the Customer if such notification would be unlawful.
- 7.28. The Customer must ensure the information provided to us is correct. By making a transfer, the Customer expressly confirms that all the data entered is correct. The Customer shall bear full responsibility for any mistakes in the provided information.
- 7.29. What happens if you provide us with incorrect information? If the Customer has provided incorrect information to us, we may, but are not required to, assist the Customer in recovering the Customer's funds. We cannot guarantee that such efforts will be successful as they rely on other banks' and institutions' policies and practices. In addition, XPATE may not be able to confirm that the Customer's recipient's name and account number match, as the names and other information associated with third-party accounts may not be known to XPATE. This means that if the Customer provides an incorrect account number, the funds will most likely go to the wrong recipient.
- 7.30. Finality. When the Customer's make a transfer, the settlement and payout to the recipient are final and irrevocable unless otherwise provided in this Agreement or under applicable law.

Converting currency

- 7.31. The Customer may convert funds in one currency to a different currency. We will notify the Customer of the exchange rate offered by XPATE and our fees when the Customer initiates a currency conversion within the Account. Once the Customer approves a currency conversion, we will deduct the amount from the appropriate Account balance, apply the exchange rate and transfer the converted amount to the destination Account or recipient requested by the Customer.
- 7.32. We reserve the right in our sole discretion to refuse any currency conversion order. Reasons for refusal may include but are not limited to insufficient available funds or where we believe the Customer has violated this Agreement, including where we believe the Customer is or may be attempting to engage in currency trading or other trading for purposes not permitted by this Agreement. We will endeavour to notify of any refusal, using the contact information provided to us, stating (where possible) the reasons for such refusal and explaining how to correct any errors. However, we will not notify if such notification may be unlawful.

- 7.33. XPATE is not a currency trading platform. We are not a currency trading platform. The Customer agrees that it will not use the Account for seeking to profit from currency conversion or foreign exchange trading or other types of speculative trading, or for speculative trading purposes, conversion arbitrage, conversion options or any other activity that XPATE determines is primarily for the purpose of gaining or making gains based on currency conversion rates. Accordingly, the Customer should not use our Services, including the Account for this purpose, including creating multiple conversion orders without the intention of completing them. If we detect that the Customer is using our Services for this purpose, we may, at our sole discretion, set a limit on the number of conversion orders the Customer may create, cancel orders, set a limit on the amount of money the Customer can convert or transfer in one or more currencies or in the same currency, restrict the Customer's ability to access certain features or use our Services, or suspend or close the Customer's Account. XPATE may also hold, cancel, or reverse any transaction we determine to violate this Agreement and disgorge your gains.
- 7.34. Changes to exchange rate. Changes to exchange rates shall come into effect immediately without notice and the Customer shall not have the right to object to such a change.

Account History

- 7.35. All the history of transactions shall be recorded in the History section of the Account and shall be available to the Customer and downloadable at any time free of charge, including the fees and statuses of the transactions as completed, cancelled or pending.
- 7.36. If the Customer's Account is closed for any reason, the Customer may request statements of their Account by reaching out to XPATE.

8. Staying Safe while using our Services

- 8.1. We recommend using the Services to send money to trusted and verified businesses and third parties that are known to the Customer or that the Customer has already done business with. The Customer should not use the Service to send money to strangers.

8.2. The Customer must:

- 8.2.1. Take all the measures necessary to keep the Login Authorisation Data secret and fully confidential and protect it against misuse.
- 8.2.2. Immediately inform XPATE when the Customer suspects his Login Authorisation Data or Account was compromised or obtained by a third party either by sending an email to XPATE or writing on our chat in the Website.
- 8.2.3. Check the Account regularly. XPATE relies on the Customer to regularly check the transactions history of the Account and to contact XPATE immediately in case the Customer has any questions or concerns.
- 8.2.4. Keep the Customer's email account secure. Let XPATE know immediately if the Customer's email account becomes compromised.
- 8.2.5. Update your device's browser to the latest version available.
- 8.2.6. Maintain your device's operating systems with regular security updates provided by the operating system provider.
- 8.2.7. Make sure every time the Customer enters the Login Authorisation Data that it is only ever on our official Website. Emails and SMS messages sent by fraudsters may lead to fake login portals that could phish the Login Authorisation Data. Similarly, criminals can place malicious adverts on search engines that lead to fake websites of trusted businesses, including XPATE.

8.3. The Customer must not:

- 8.3.1. Disclose the Login Authorisation Data.

- 8.3.2. Let any third party access the Account or watch the Customer access it, including letting someone else take remote control of the Customer's device(s).
- 8.3.3. Do anything which may in any way avoid or compromise the 2-step authentication process.
- 8.4. Additional Services the Customer uses may have additional security requirements, and the Customer must familiarise himself with those.
- 8.5. The Customer is responsible for configuring the Customer's information technology, computer programmes and platform in order to access our Services. We cannot guarantee that our Services will be free from bugs or viruses.

9. Negative balance

- 9.1. The Customer promises to always have a zero or positive balance in their Account and to repay XPATE if the balance is negative, including as a result of a chargeback, reversal, deduction of fees, any other reason described in this Agreement, or any other error or action.
- 9.2. Any negative balance on the Customer's account represents an amount owed by the Customer to XPATE that must be repaid immediately without any notice from us. Failure by Customer to re-pay the negative balance is a breach of this Agreement. XPATE may require and collect payment from the Customer to cover an outstanding negative balance of the Account at any time, send reminders or take other debt collection measures, including, but not limited to, mandating a debt collection agency or solicitors or pursuing a court claim. XPATE may also charge the Customer any costs that XPATE reasonably incurs in connection with these debt collection or enforcement efforts. For more information, see What happens if the Customer owes money to XPATE in section 16.4.

10. Closing the Account

- 10.1. The Customer may stop using the Services and close its Account by giving one-month prior notice to XPATE. To do so, Customer must notify XPATE of Customer's decision to close Customer's account. At Customer's request, XPATE may agree to close Customer's account immediately, including when it does not agree with changes to this Agreement.
- 10.2. To close the Account, the Customer should withdraw its funds within a reasonable time. At the time of closure, if the Customer still has funds in the Account, the Customer must withdraw any remaining funds within a reasonable time by following the steps in "Withdrawing funds from your Account" in Section 7.20. After a reasonable period, the Customer will no longer have access to the Account, but the Customer can still withdraw the funds by contacting XPATE. The Customer has the right to do this for 6 years from the date the Account is closed.
- 10.3. After closure or deactivation of the Account, the Customer may be subject to additional checks before XPATE can return the funds to the Customer.
- 10.4. When the Customer may not close the Account. The Customer must not close the Account:
  - 10.4.1. To evade an investigation;
  - 10.4.2. If the Customer has a pending transaction or an open dispute or claim;
  - 10.4.3. If the Customer has a negative balance; or
  - 10.4.4. If the Customer's Account is subject to a hold, limitation or reserve.
- 10.5. If the Customer attempts to do this, XPATE may hold the Customer's funds for a period of time that is reasonably necessary to protect XPATE or a third party's interest.
- 10.6. The Customer is responsible for the Account after closure. The Customer agrees that it will continue to be responsible for all obligations related to the Account and the use of our Services, even after it is closed or the Customer has stopped using our Services. For example, if the Customer has a negative balance with XPATE, the Customer will remain responsible for paying XPATE even after the Account is closed. For more information, see “What happens if the Customer owes money to XPATE” in section 16.4.

- 10.7. XPATE may end this Agreement and close the Customer’s Account. XPATE may end this Agreement and terminate the Customer’s Account or any Services associated with it by giving two months prior notice, where required. In certain cases, XPATE may suspend or terminate the Customer’s Account or access to the Services immediately. See “Restricted Activities” in section 12 below.
- 10.8. If Customer does not access Customer’s account for 9 (nine) months, XPATE will close it. The Customer must withdraw the funds as per section 10.2 above. XPATE may attempt to remind the Customer using the last contact details the Customer gave XPATE to withdraw any funds in the Customer’s account.

Such changes or amendments shall become effective on the date specified in the notice, unless the Customer terminates this Agreement immediately by closing the Account and ceasing using the Services. After the notice period has passed, the Customer will be considered as having accepted the proposed changes and they will apply to the Customer from the effective date specified on the notice.

- 15.2. In some instances, we may change this Agreement immediately. Notwithstanding section 15.1, changes to this Agreement which do not require two months notice or are (1) more favourable to the Customer; (2) required by law; (3) related to the addition of a new service, extra functionality to the existing Service; or (4) changes which neither reduce the Customer's rights nor increase the Customer's responsibilities; will come into effect immediately if they are stated in the change notice. Changes to exchange rates shall come into effect immediately without notice and the Customer shall not have the right to object to such a change.
- 15.3. The Customer undertakes to regularly review any of the channels described in section on "Communications between XPATE and the Customer" where relevant information may be published.

The Customer agrees that XPATE may deduct from the Customer's Account all the losses and expenses specified in this section 16.1, at XPATE's own discretion.
- 16.2. Release. If the Customer has a dispute with any other XPATE Account holder or a third party that the Customer send funds to or receive funds from using the Services, the Customer releases XPATE from any and all claims, demands and damages (actual and consequential) of every kind and nature, known and unknown, arising out of or in any way connected with such disputes. This means that the Customer must use caution when dealing with third parties using our Services or the Account. In entering into this release the Customer expressly waive any protections (whether statutory or otherwise) that would otherwise limit the coverage of this release to include only those claims which the Customer may know or suspect to exist in the Customer's favour at the time of agreeing to this release.
- 16.3. What happens if the Customer owes money to XPATE. In the event the Customer is liable for any amounts owed to XPATE for whatever reason, XPATE may immediately remove such amounts from the Customer Account. If there are insufficient funds in the Customer's Account to cover the Customer's liability, the Customer agrees to repay the outstanding amount to XPATE immediately on demand along with any applicable fees and interest. In the event that the Customer does not repay the outstanding amount, then, without prejudice to any other rights XPATE may have, XPATE reserve the right to collect the Customer's debt to XPATE by using any payments received for our Services in the future (such as to add funds to the Account or from funds received in the Customer's Account), and otherwise the Customer agrees to reimburse XPATE through other means. XPATE may also recover amounts the Customer owes XPATE through other collection avenues, including, without limitation, through the use of a debt collection agency.
